darkness to Gretna Green. Gretna Green is ½ mile over the border north of Carlisle. It was a stagecoach changing post on the London to Glasgow route. The first building was the blacksmith's shop. The civil contract of marriage was lead by the "blacksmith priest" over the anvil, believed to offer good fortune. Runaway couples traveled for days by coach often with fathers in hot pursuit.

The tradition continues today with 4000 weddings a year occurring in Gretna Green. Couples now travel from around the world to be married in the 2007 Scottish Wedding Hotel of the Year.

Clans Celts and Clover has a bridal section that goes beyond the dazzling gold wedding bands. Flasks for men and silver jewellery for women are very good attendant gifts. Pewter Goblets are very popular as their design is unique and their heavy weight adds a feeling of enchantment. Many couples seek out their tartan or clan crests for traditional touches to their special day.
