customer inspired me to become something more. I became a cabin boy on a Clyde cattle ship to the US where I would eventually settle and make my fortune in business. In 2007, I was ranked #1 by Forbes magazine, although I have since dropped to second place with a net worth of $33.5 billion.

My hobbies include treasure hunting, and swimming of sorts. You may also be familiar with my nephew Donald or my Great nephews.

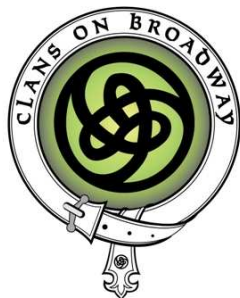

My most prized possession came from my life as a boot shiner, my Number One Dime.

My motto is "Work Smarter, not harder." I share my name with a character from a Charles Dicken's novel.
